

Rhein Class Homework- Autumn Term 2022

Movers and Shakers

Children are expected to read each day and regularly use Doodle and Numbots apps for homework.

The suggestions below are optional, extra homework that may be completed, if you wish. We suggest one item per week.

Choose a significant person from history to draw a picture of, or create a model of.	Historically significant people can be divided into five different groups. These include activists, artists, explorers, monarchs and scientists. Draw pictures and write captions to describe what each group means.	Becoming a significant person is not easy. Neil Armstrong, for example, had to work hard to become an astronaut before he had the opportunity to travel to the Moon. Ask an adult to help you to research and create a timeline of Neil Armstrong’s education and training, beginning after he left school and ending with the Moon landing.	Choose five famous people and find out about their impact on the world. Can you rank them from who you think is the most to the least significant?
Ask an adult to help you find out about a significant person who lived in the past. It can be someone that you have learned about in class, or it could be someone who lived in your family’s local area. Find a creative way to share your findings with the class. You could make something, draw something or write something.	Hunt around your house and in your local area for memorials that celebrate the lives and achievements of significant people. Examples could include coins, stamps, statues and road names. Take photographs of any that you find and share them with the class.		Finish your home learning by making a poster or explaining to an adult what you have learned about some of the significant people from the project.
Useful websites: BBC Bitesize – Significant people National Geographic Kids – Neil Armstrong Facts! DKfindout! – Facts About Neil Armstrong DKfindout! – Famous Scientists DKfindout! – Famous Explorers DKfindout! – Kings and Queens of England

We will share homework each Thursday.